Blank Template for Papers

Abstract for a paper about some stuff. We took away the abstract title because it isn't necessary. For the text block, we use microtype, wider margins than one-inch, 1.5x line spacing. Type styles use the Minion and Myriad families (which will probably fail on most computers, sike!), and a font identity that uses no bolding—the only text decoration is small capitals and italics. We don't need huge section titles either, so we shrink 'em.

Elaboration on a finer point

Let's say we wanted to write some pretty math. Let's say we really thought item response theory (IRT) models were beautiful, and we were to write one flavor of IRT model:
